Subject: FW: Federal Reserve Inquiry

All,

The Federal Reserve has come back from our last response and ask that we provide them with a relevant sample brokerage agreement between the plan (True Wind) and broker. Of the three brokers that we indicated True Wind had used (Bastion, TJM and Sunrise) I have copies of the agreements for Bastion and TJM (I am not aware of any agreement with Sunrise). I note, however, that I do not have the fully countersigned Bastion agreement and, in any case, that agreement lists Old Park Lane as the clearing broker/custodian and True Wind is now using West Point Derivatives (which we disclosed previously to the Federal Reserve).

As such, it seems the TJM agreement is the best one to provide (informally, the contact at the Federal Reserve said it was fine to provide one agreement from any of the three that the plan used).

I have attached these two agreements to this email so you can see them.

Regards,
Peter

So taking out the "co-investment" part the proposed responses would be as follows:

- With respect to the coordination and co-investment activities by the plans, how do the plans know one another such that they decide to make these co-investments?
- The beneficial owners and trustees of the various plans for which we report have long standing common personal and professional relationships. It is through these relationships that the plans have come to know

- To the extent that strategies are recommended by some other party (e.g., Solo) is there any document that can be provided which more clearly explains their role vis-à-vis the plan?
- There is no particular document which more specifically details the role that any non-U.S. regulated entity provides with respect to any recommendation as to particular trading strategies.

Your other answers are fine with me.

On Jerome's email, we should not send any custody documents unless they happen to be the specific ones the plans they have inquired about have entered into, especially if some of the plans don't have any relationship with Solo.

Dear All,

What do we want to do there. I understood that KS would prepare a proposed answer for our review. I had discussed with Peter whether it made sense to simply explain that there is no RIA relationship in the U.S. or anywhere else. We could send the custody agreement that exists with Solo as a sample of the agreement in place as well if we want to be proactive the agreements I place with some of the non US brokers. Let me know how you want to proceed. I do not believe we want to wait too long to address the question even if it was just orally to KS.

The Federal Reserve has come back with two additional follow-up questions (delivered over the phone and not in writing) as follows:

1. To the extent that strategies are recommended by some other party (e.g., Solo) is there any document that can be provided which more clearly explains their role vis-à-vis the plan?

Michael and I weren't sure what, if anything, we could provide here that would be in writing, but we open it up to the group to see if there are any thoughts on whether any such document exists or can be created.

2. With respect to the coordination and co-investment activities by the plans, how do the plans know one another

We can craft an answer to this question which addresses that the plans are similarly situated insofar as the beneficial owners of the plan know one another professionally etc.

While not explicitly stated, the basic thrust of the brief conversation seemed that in the absence of a U.S. investment advisor who is bringing the parties together and coordinating the investment activities they want to better understand how the investments are so similar across all of the reporting entities.

All,

Further to our recent call on the subject, below are our revised proposed responses to the Federal Reserve:

Trustees:

- Please review and confirm if U.S. Sub-Brokers were involved in the reportable monthly transactions.
  - Ø I confirm that there were no U.S. Sub-Brokers involved in the reportable monthly transactions.
- Please provide the name of the Investment manager/advisor that is responsible for making investment decisions on behalf of the pension plan.
  - Ø There is no U.S. investment manager or advisor responsible for making investment decisions. The trustee has sole legal authority to make investment decisions.
- What role does Broad Financial have in the pension plan?
  - Ø Broad Financial is the service provider that assisted with the documents necessary for the legal formation of the plan.
- Is the pension plan using a U.S. bank or a U.S. custodian?
  - Ø No, the plan is not using a U.S. bank or a U.S. custodian with respect to the reportable monthly transactions.
- Please provide the registered ID number for the pension plan.
  - Ø The pension plans are not incorporated entities and therefore do not have any registered ID number.

Kaye Scholer:

Below please find our follow up questions regarding the reporting of these five pension plans.

The trust documents do not provide the place of incorporation for these pension plans. Can you please provide the incorporation document for the five selected plans?

Ø The plans themselves (and the related trust documents) are not incorporated entities and therefore do not have places of incorporation. The plan formation documents have previously been provided. The trusts and plans are governed by the laws of the following jurisdictions:

- o Fairview Post Pension Plan – Delaware
- o Jewelry Creations Pension Plan – Minnesota
- o Babine Pension Plan – Delaware
- o Ternuay Investments Pension Plan – Delaware
- o True Wind Investments LLC Roth 401(k) Plan – New York

Please provide a document that clarifies the roles of all the involved parties for the pension plans (i.e. custodian, broker, investment manager/advisor, trustee, fund administrator, etc.).

The plans are qualified retirement plans established by the sponsoring employer to facilitate the retirement savings of the plan beneficiaries. The plan assets are held and administered by the designated trustee. While the trust and plan documents permit the appointment of an investment manager, no such manager has been appointed. As a result, the trustee has sole legal authority to make investment decisions on behalf of the plan. With respect to any of the other parties referenced above (e.g., brokers, custodians etc.) any such relationships are arm's length and entered into in the normal course of the plan's investment activities.

As you had mentioned on our call, please clarify in detail how these pension plans are affiliated with each other.

Ø These plans are not affiliated with one another in anyway. There are other reporting plans that are affiliated in that they have the same beneficial owner. In addition, certain combinations of the plans co-invest with others to implement the same or similar trading strategies, which strategies are recommended by certain non-U.S. regulated entities such as Solo Capital Partners LLP, which is regulated in the UK by the FSA.

Please explain the role of Broad Financial for the pension plans?

Ø Broad Financial is the service provider that assisted with the documents necessary for the legal formation of the pension plans.

Please provide the registered ID number for the five pension plans.

Ø The pension plans are not incorporated entities and therefore do not have any registered ID number.

Several of the pension plans are using the same Foreign Broker and purchasing the same securities on the same exchanges. Please review and confirm if the transactions were executed by an investment manager/advisor on behalf of the pension plans.

Ø We confirm that there is no U.S. investment manager/advisor acting on behalf of the pension plans.

Dear Mr. Altbach,

Under the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFiD), we may treat you as an elective professional client if, after our assessment of your expertise, experience, and knowledge of you, we are reasonably assured that, in light of the nature of the transactions or services envisaged, you are capable of making your own investment decisions and understanding the risks involved. This is the "qualitative test".

In summary the qualitative test, aside from a reasonable degree of familiarity with investments, refers to clients that are happy to confirm that they:

- a) Carried out transactions, in significant size, on the relevant market at an average frequency of 10 per quarter over the previous four quarters.
- b) Have a financial portfolio where the total of all cash deposits and all financial products have a combined value of over EUR 500,000
- c) Have, for at least a year, worked in a profession that required knowledge of financial products.

Any 2 of the above 3 criteria will suffice.

If you do not feel that two out of the three criteria apply to you, you should not agree to be treated as a professional client.

Please feel free to contact us on 0207 965 4620 if you have any question regarding your categorisation.

Yours sincerely,

Professional clients are not eligible complainants with respect to the Financial Ombudsman Services ("FOS") and do not have access to this service.

Pre-requirements for the entry into written basic agreements for designated investment business may not apply to professional clients.

If TJM makes a personal recommendation or manages investments professional client in the course of MiFID or equivalent third party business, it is entitled to assume that, in relation to the products, transactions and services for which the professional client is so classified, the client has the necessary level of experience and knowledge for the purposes of suitability assessment, and where the Firm is required to provide suitability reports to a retail client, in many cases the firm is not required to provide them to a professional client.

With respect to non-advised services, TJM is not required to request information or adhere to the same procedures when assessing the appropriateness of a given service or product for a professional client, and TJM may not be required to give warnings to the professional client if the TJM cannot determine appropriateness with respect to a given services or product.

TJM must provide certain product information to retail clients, but not professional clients, when selling packaged products, cash ISAs, or cash Child Trust Funds. There is no right to cancel a non-distance contract to buy a unit in a regulated collective investment scheme if the consumer is not a retail client.

When managing investments for a client, a firm must provide the client with a periodic statement. For retail clients, the content of the statement is prescribed, but for professional clients, it is not.

TJM may take into consideration the classification of the client in following its Order Execution Policy, as well as in providing information, including product information, to clients.

RISK WARNING

You should be aware that the price of shares and other investments, and the income derived from them, may fall as well as rise and the amount realised may be less than the original sum invested. Some securities carry a greater risk than others. It is our policy to fully advise you of the risks associated with the investments that we will arrange and manage for you.

Shares, Fixed Interest Bonds and Gilts, and Collective Investments are all classified as Non Complex Products, however like all investment products, carry a certain degree of risk.

i. Shares - There is an extra risk when buying shares in smaller capitalised companies or unlisted shares. Due to a larger difference between the buying price and selling price of these shares, if they had to be sold immediately you may get back far less than you paid for them. Emerging Market Shares often have less liquidity than shares in more developed markets and may not be regulated as strictly. Investing in shares in a specialist sector is considered to be a higher risk strategy due to the lack of diversification and greater exposure to higher volatility.

ii. Fixed Interest Bonds & Gilts classified BBB- or above by recognised rating agencies are generally considered to be a safe investment, with AAA rated bonds considered the safest, however sub investment or junk bonds, which often pay higher rates of interest, are issued by companies that are less financially secure and therefore the risk of default is substantially higher.

iii. Collective Investments - These include Investment Trusts, Unit Trusts, Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) and Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs). When considering investing into any of the above products it is highly recommended that you read the key features document prior to making any decision and if necessary consult with a professional investment adviser. The value of an investment into a Collective Investment can fall as well as rise and you may not get back your original investment.

Complex Products - Futures, Options and Warrants are all classified as Complex Products and prior to dealing in these products, you should be aware of the nature and level of risk associated. You must understand that although it is not uncommon for these products to be used for the management of investment risk some of these products are not suitable for all investors. We therefore advise that you speak to your Independent Financial Adviser if necessary. Before TJ Markets will enter you into any transaction involving a Complex Product we will need to be satisfied that the product is suitable for you with regards to your financial circumstances and product knowledge and investment time horizon.

i. Futures - Transactions in Futures involve the obligation to make, or take, delivery of the underlying asset of the contract at a future date, or in some instances to settle the position with cash. Futures are considered a high risk financial instrument. The gearing or leverage often obtainable means that a small deposit can lead to large losses (as well as gains). It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a much larger movement in the value of your investment. Futures transaction have a contingent liability, and you should be aware of the implications of this, in particular the margining requirements.

ii. Options - There are many different types of options with different characteristics.

iii. Buying Options - Buying Options involves less risk than selling because the maximum loss is limited to the premium, plus any dealing costs.

iv. Writing Options - Has considerably far greater risks than buying options. You may be liable for margin to maintain your position and a loss may be sustained well in excess of the premium received. By writing an Option you accept a legal obligation to purchase or sell the underlying assets if the option is exercised against you however far the market price has moved away from the exercise price.

v. Warrants - A Warrant is a time-limited right to subscribe for shares, debentures, loan stock or government securities and is exercisable against the original issuer of the underlying securities. A relatively small movement in the price of the underlying security results in a disproportionately large movement, unfavourable or favourable, in the price of the warrant. It is essential for anyone who is considering purchasing warrants to understand the right to subscribe which a warrant confers is invariably limited in time with the consequence that if the investor fails to exercise this right within the predetermined time-scale then the investment becomes worthless.

vi. Derivatives - Derivatives are financial instruments, the values of which are derived from an underlying asset's value. Rather than trade or exchange the asset itself, an agreement is entered into to exchange money, assets or some other value at some future date based on the underlying asset. Investing in derivatives should be made with caution, especially for less experienced investors, or investors with a limited amount of capital to invest.

vii. Contract For Differences (CFDs) - Certain derivatives are referred to as contracts for differences. These can be options and futures on the FTSE 100 index or any other index of an exchange, as well as equity, currency and interest rate swaps, amongst others. CFDs are only settled in cash and carry a high degree of risk. Like a Futures product, the gearing or leverage often obtainable means that a small deposit can lead to large losses (as well as gains). It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a much larger movement in the value of your investment. CFD transactions have a contingent liability, and you should be aware of the implications of this, in particular the margining requirements. CFDs can be used for speculative purposes or as hedges to manage other investment risk. In all cases the suitability of the transaction for the particular investor should be very carefully considered.

- (i) TJM may act on any instruction which it reasonably believes to have been given on your behalf and shall be under no duty to confirm such instruction. TJM may assume that any person purporting to give instructions on your behalf is properly authorised, without limitation to do so.
- (ii) In the event that TJM provides advice to you, it shall not be required to ensure that such advice takes into account any research or other recommendations as may be published by TJM from time to time, nor of any information known to other areas within TJM but not known to the TJM office dealing directly with you. #### 10. Contracts not on Regulated Markets

TJM may advise or arrange transactions in circumstances where the relevant transaction is not governed by the rules of an investment exchange or is executed on an exchange that has not been recognised or designated under the Rules. In this event, you may be required to enter into additional documentation in order to effect any such transactions with the assistance of TJM.

11. Safe Custody of Client Assets

- (i) All clients' assets are held securely with our designated custodians, prime brokers or other regulated counterparties.
- (ii) As a professional client you are entitled to request that your assets be segregated, but unless you specifically request this, our custodians, prime brokers and regulated counterparties will pool your assets in accordance with the rules of the FCA.
- (iii) The FCA has strict rules covering the conduct of firms authorised to hold and control clients' assets and the firms to which we will introduce you will be subject to the prevailing rules and the following considerations:

- (a) FCA firms authorised to hold and control clients' assets are required to carry out daily Financial Resource calculations to ensure the firm has adequate regulatory capital at all times;
- (b) If your funds are segregated this will involve the firm placing client funds in a client money account separate from the firm's own money. In the event of default by the firm, segregated funds are held for our clients and debts of the firm cannot be paid with those funds. Similarly, should the firm's bank account become overdrawn, the bank cannot use client funds to reduce the overdraft. Note: segregation of client money from the firm's money does not protect the client if the bank that holds the client money bank account goes into administration.
- (c) By the end of each business day the firm must rebalance their segregated funds accounts to ensure that the liquidation value of each client's account, as at midnight that day, is fully segregated.
- (d) Where your assets are pooled your individual entitlements may not be identifiable by separate title documents or electronic records. In the event of an irreconcilable shortfall following any default your full entitlement may share in the shortfall pro-rata to your original share of the assets in the pool.
- (e) Protections mentioned above may not apply if your assets are pooled as described.

12. Execution

- i) In executing transactions for you, TJM will deal with you as an agent.
- ii) In accordance with the FCA rules, TJM shall comply with our Best Execution policy. The effect of this is that when executing orders on your behalf, TJM will take all reasonable steps to achieve the best outcome for you, taking into account the nature of your order, the priorities you place upon us fulfilling those orders and the relevant market. We shall execute orders in accordance with our Order and Best Execution Policy a copy of which is available on our website homepage at www.tjmpartners.com.

13. Recording of Conversations

TJM may record telephone conversations on TJM telephone lines with or without the use of an automatic tone warning device. - v) The rights and remedies of TJM and of the Customer under these Terms of Business are cumulative and do not (save as expressly provided in these Terms of Business) exclude any rights or remedies provided by law.

ANNEXURE A RISK WARNING NOTICE

TJM is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA). It is our policy to provide all of our clients with the following risk warning notice in relation to dealing in margined products such as contracts for difference (CFDs), spread betting, futures and options. This document explains many of the risks associated with margined markets, but it cannot explain all of the risks.

As margined products carry a high level of risk, you should not deal in these products unless you understand their nature and the extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the product is suitable for you in the light of your circumstances and financial position and that you only speculate with funds you can afford to lose.

Although margined products can be utilised for the management of investment risk, it may not be suitable for some investors. In deciding whether to trade in margined products, you should be aware of the following points:

Most margined products can only be settled in cash. Investing in CFDs carries the same risks as investing in a future or an option or other margined products. Transactions in margined products may also have a contingent liability and you should be aware of the implications of this as set out below.

Past performance should not be considered as a guarantee of future performance as the future performance of underlying markets or funds is uncertain.

Contingent liability investment transactions, which are margined, require you to make a series of payments against the purchase price, instead of paying the whole purchase price immediately. If you trade in margined products, you may rapidly sustain a total loss of the margin you deposit with your broker to establish or maintain a position. If the market continues to move against you, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional margin at short notice (which in some cases could be a matter of minutes) to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be responsible for the resulting deficit. In certain circumstances, your clearing broker might increase the Margin rates and/or notional trading requirements at any time without notice, resulting in additional Margin that you are required to deposit to maintain your positions.

Even if a transaction is not margined, it may still carry an obligation to make further payments in certain circumstances over and above any amount paid when you entered the contract.

When you trade in derivates (such as spread bets and CFDs), you will generally be entering into an off-exchange (also known as an over-the-counter, or OTC) derivative which is non-transferable. This means you will enter into trades directly with your broker and those trades can only get closed with that broker. You will not be able to transfer or sell your open positions to other brokers.

Before you begin trading, you should obtain details of all commissions and other charges for which you will be liable. If any charges are not expressed in money terms (but, for example, as a percentage of contract value), you should obtain a clear and written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what such charges are likely to mean in specific money terms. For example in the case of CFDs, when commission is charged as a percentage, it will normally be as a percentage of the total contract value, and not simply as a percentage of your initial payment.

Unless your clearing broker offers guaranteed stop losses, normal stop loss or other orders are not guaranteed. Gapping or slippage can occur when the underlying market is unusually volatile and the market price moves rapidly past the price you have set your stop loss or other order. In those circumstances you will receive the next available price. For example if you had a long position in a stock at say £4.50 with a good until cancelled stop loss in place at £4.00, and overnight there was a negative announcement that caused the market price to open at £3.85, you would receive a fill at £3.85 and not £4.00.

Markets traded outside of the UK can sometimes involve greater risks. Any profits or losses arising from transactions denominated in a currency that is not your base currency may be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates particularly if you are exposing yourself to a cross-currency risk. CFDs may require you to pay overnight financing costs. If you make profits or losses in currencies different to your base currency, you might be required to convert those foreign currencies into your base currency. The combination of your financing and foreign exchange costs may exceed any profits on your trade or increase the losses you incur on a trade.

Bastion Capital London LTD ("Executing Broker")

Old Park Lane Capital PLC ("Clearing Broker")

True Wind Investments LLC Roth 401(K) Plan ("Customer")

1. All transactions executed orally, in writing or through an electronic order facility or cleared hereunder shall be subject to applicable laws, governmental, regulatory, self-regulatory, exchange or clearing house rules, regulations, interpretations, protocols and the customs and usages of the exchange or clearing house on which they are executed and cleared, as in force from time to time ("Applicable Law"). All disputes relating to transactions executed or cleared under this Agreement shall be governed by and settled pursuant to Applicable Law and shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the exchange (and, if applicable, its clearing house) upon which the dispute arises. The parties to this Agreement shall perform their respective obligations and exercise their respective rights under this Agreement (including, but not limited to, rejecting a Customer order, calling a Customer for margin or providing any notice specified herein) using commercially reasonable judgement, in a commercially reasonable manner under the circumstances, and consistent with Applicable Law.
2. Customer authorizes Executing Broker to execute orders for Customer as transmitted orally, in writing or through an electronic order facility by Customer to Executing Broker, or, as permitted by Applicable Law, directly to an exchange. Executing Broker reserves the right to reject an order that Customer may transmit to Executing Broker for execution and shall promptly notify Customer of any such rejection. Clearing Broker may, upon prior notice to Executing Broker and Customer, place limits or conditions on the positions it will accept for give-up for Customer's account.
3. Unless otherwise agreed in writing, each of the parties authorizes Executing Broker and Clearing Broker to use the services of one or more other persons or entities in connection with their obligations under this Agreement; provided, however, that Executing Broker and Clearing Broker remain responsible to Customer for the performance (or failure of performance) of their respective obligations and responsibilities under this Agreement.
4. Customer, whether placing orders orally, in writing or through an electronic order facility, will be responsible for accurate and valid placement of orders. Executing Broker, and not Clearing Broker, will be responsible for determining that all orders are placed or authorized by Customer. Additionally, except as otherwise agreed in writing, Executing Broker will: (a) upon placement of orders by Customer, confirm the terms of the orders with Customer if customary and practicable; (b) be responsible for the accurate execution of all orders; (c) confirm the execution of such orders to Customer as soon as is practicable thereafter; and (d) transmit such executed orders to Clearing Broker as soon as practicable, but in no event later than the period mandated by Applicable Law. Subject to Section 2 herein, Clearing Broker shall be responsible for clearing all executed orders transmitted to Clearing Broker. Unless otherwise provided by Applicable Law, neither Executing Broker nor Clearing Broker shall be responsible or liable for losses or damages resulting from: (x) error, negligence or misconduct of Customer and/or exchange or clearing house; (y) failure of transmission, communication or electronic order facilities; or (z) any other cause or causes beyond their control.
5. Executing Broker will, where applicable, bill commissions for executing trades, as elected in Section 12 below, on a monthly basis. Customer or Clearing Broker, as elected in Section 12 below, shall be responsible for verifying billing and making payment. Clearing Broker will, where applicable, pay floor brokerage fees, as well as any exchange or clearing house fees, incurred for all transactions executed by Executing Broker for and on behalf of Customer and subsequently accepted by Clearing Broker.
6. In the event that Customer disputes or denies knowledge of any transaction, Clearing Broker or Executing Broker shall be authorized to liquidate or otherwise offset the disputed position. Where practicable, prior notice of such liquidation or offset shall be provided to the other parties to this Agreement.
7. In the event that Clearing Broker does not, for any reason, accept a trade transmitted to it by Executing Broker, Clearing Broker shall promptly notify Customer and Executing Broker of such non-acceptance, and Executing Broker, or its designated clearing broker if applicable, shall at its option be entitled to:
  - (a) close out Customer's trade by such sale, purchase, disposal or other cancellation transaction as Executing Broker may determine, whether on the market, by private contract or any other appropriate method. Executing Broker shall promptly notify Customer of such close out. Any balance resulting from such close out shall be promptly settled between Executing Broker and Customer; or
  - (b) transfer Customer's trades to another clearing broker as instructed by Customer; or
  - (c) clear Customer's trade in accordance with the following terms:

- i. Customer shall be fully liable for any and all obligations arising out of or related to transactions entered into or carried in Customer's account by Executing Broker, including, but not limited to: 1) debit balances, 2) exchange or clearing house fees, and 3) brokerage, commissions, and applicable fees charged by Executing Broker;
- ii. Executing Broker shall have the right to call Customer for margin in such amounts, in such form, by such time and in such manner as may be required by Executing Broker. If Customer fails to meet such margin call within such specified time, or if Executing Broker, in its discretion, otherwise deems it appropriate for Executing Broker's protection, Executing Broker may close out Customer's trade pursuant to sub-paragraph (a) above;
- iii. Customer acknowledges that Customer's trades may be subject to exercise or delivery assignments, where applicable.

8. Customer acknowledges that all notices and disclosures that are provided by Clearing Broker to Customer (or Customer's representative) pursuant to Applicable Law, will be deemed, for purposes of Section 7 of this Agreement, as if received by Customer from Executing Broker as well as from Clearing Broker. Clearing Broker represents, warrants and covenants to Executing Broker that it has provided, and will provide, all required notices and disclosures to Customer (or Customer's representative).

9. This Agreement may be terminated by any of the parties hereto upon prior written notice to the other parties. Any such termination shall have no effect upon any party's rights and obligations arising out of transactions executed prior to such termination.

10. This agreement shall be exclusively governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the jurisdiction specified below without regard to principles of choice of law.

11. This Agreement shall not amend or vary any clearing or electronic services agreement between Clearing Broker and Customer or Executing Broker and Customer. In the event of a conflict between this Agreement and such other clearing or electronic services agreement with respect to the execution, clearing or carrying of Customer's trades, such other clearing or electronic services agreement will control with respect thereto.

12. Executing Broker, where applicable, will bill commissions per contract per half turn as specified on attached Addendum, rate schedule, or as separately agreed.

13. Each party consents to the electronic recording, without the use of an automatic warning tone, of all telephone conversations between or among the parties and their representatives.

14. Unless otherwise prohibited by Applicable Law, any party to this Agreement, from time to time, may add additional accounts of Customer to be governed by this Agreement by prior written notice (which may be by facsimile or other electronic transmission) to the other parties, provided that (i) the same fees agreed to herein apply and (ii) valid clearing accounts for such accounts exist at the Clearing Broker.

15. This Agreement may be executed and delivered in counterparts (including by facsimile or other electronic transmission), each of which will be deemed an original.
